decided to advise His Majesty the King to consent to a reconstruction of the Government." That brief statement, issued through the Press Bureau shortly before midnight, closed a day of rumours which opened with the definite announcement, in a newspaper in close touch with the Secretary of State for War, that Mr. Lloyd George had placed his resignation in the Prime Minister's hands. In the light of the Press Bureau statement, was authentic, and that Mr. Lloyd George shad placed his resignation in the Prime Minister's hands. In the light of the Press Bureau statement, was authentic, and that Mr. Lloyd George's threat of resignation has precipitated that reconstruction of the Government with which rumour has been busyduring the last few days. Public diseatisfaction with the Government's conduct of the war has been coming very rapidly to a head during the past week. It has found daily stronger expression in the Press, not of one party, but of all parties. Those newspapers which have hitherto been the Government's most stalwart supporters have not hesitated to accuse it of want of ideas, of lack of course, and, above all. Of those most unpardonable and dangerous vices in war-time, irresolution and indecision. Evidence of those vices is writlarge over the whole political situation. Half-a-dozen urgant questions, some of which were due for debate in Farliament this week, and all of which are directly connected with the war, and are of the most urgent and vital importance, have been ever-ripe for solution for weeks. The decision on man-power, which in itself indecision of the bility of reconciling divergent views. The question of the manning of the Board of Admiralty has, been settled; but that Board and the Air Board are still exchanging views upon the competition of the services for machines, while Sir Douglas Haig is waiting for aeroplanes to maintain his supremacy over the Germans, who are putting forth a supreme effort to wrest it from him by the construction of new and improved machines in large numbers. Three weeks ago Ministers awakened at a last to the appalling waste of foodstaffs which continued while the enemy's submarines were taking a daily larger tell of the shipping upon which our overseas supplies depend. A "Food Dictator" was to be appointed forthwith. Here, at least, it seemed, was a complete and well-considered scheme. But the days have passed, and longthened into weeks, and no "Food Dictator" has been found. Once more it is apparent that Ministers have taken refuge from a difficult problem in a formula. Even their announced policy in the matter of food supplies, which they have created no machinery and taken no serious steps to carry, into effect, contained no provision for the only true and fundamental solution of the problem—increased home production on the largest possible scales. Meanwhile the period of winter sowing is slipping away without any attempt being made to seize the unforgiving minute, to carry, into effect, contained no provision for the only true and fundamental solution of the problem—increased home production on the largest possible scales. Meanwhile the period of winter sowing is slipping away without any attempt being made to seize the unforgiving minute, the problem is a sat those portions of the campaign of 1917, as it was to be written over our preparations for the campaign of 1917, as it was to be written over our preparations for the campaign of 1917, as it was to be written over our preparations for the campaign of 1916, the ca

the whole year's campaign.

Unless the verdict of "too late" was to be written over our preparations for the campaign of 1917, as it was written over our preparations for the campaign of 1916, something had to be done at once to end this intolerable situation. If, as we may believe, it is Mr. Lloyd George who has taken the decisive action, the whole Empire owes him its heartfelt thanks. It will be widely hoped—and the terms of the Press Bureau's statement, though it appears to suggest a reconstruction under Mr. Asquith's auspices, do not altogether exclude the hope—that it will become his duty, as the King's first Minister, to infuse into the conduct of the war that energy and that initiative which have so long been lacking. In any case, the country will be vigilant to see that "reconstruction" means no mere re-shuffling of the Ministerial pack. "Reconstruction" must be real and drastic, based wholly must be real and drastic, based wholly and solely on the qualities required in waging war; ruthlessly laying aside men, sted with whatever sanctities of tradition or personality, who do not possess these qualities; placing not only in office, but in power, men, wherever they are to be found, who do possess them. It is re-ported that the chief element in the in the current discussion on the ford scheme of reconstruction will be the con-stitution of the War Council as an effective bedy of five members only—who in all forecaste, we are glad to see, include Sir and Sir Edward Carson will guarantee the nation against any "reconstruction" which fails to make the administrative structure correspond with the only func-tion which counts—the winning of the war.

Greece and Rumania. The situation in Greece is now definitely ritical. Allied forces have been attacked to learn that the Society's instructress in Athens, and blood has been shed. The introducing the innovation, has had enthu messages allowed to issue from Athens on Saturday suggest that order was restored, but the occurrences of the previous day cannot be treated merely as incidents due to the highly excited state of feeling and the difficulty of keeping the factionists under control. It is definitely stated that artillery was employed by Greek forces, and that the turbulent and notoriously antagonistic "reservists" have been assembled and the Greek Government is not defi-nitely implicated in the grave out-breaks of hostility to Allied forces, it be almost certain, some of its servants have been connected. The conflict at Athens must rank, nevertheless, as a minor matter in comparison with other features of the crisis. Admiral du Fournet, on behalf of the Allies, demanded the transfer to his keeping of arms and ammunition in excess of the normal requirements of the peace catablishment of the Greek Army. He required the surrender of ten batteries of mountain artillery by December 1st and the rest not later than December 1st. On Thursday night the Greek Government informed Admiral du Fournet that it refused to comply with his demand. A few hours Fournet, on behalf of the Allies, decomply with his demand. A few hours evening.

We print elsewhere a letter in which the Secretary of the United Irishwomen account of the value of cheese. There is however, as our correspondent points or body of the members my—who in all forecasts, we are glad to see, include Sir Edward Carson—which will devote itself solely, without departmental responsibilities, to the conduct of the war, and will take every final decision without its deliberations being subject to the criticism, the revision, or the veto, of other Ministers. That is, so far as the mechanics of the question are concerned, the obvious remedy for the defects of unwieldiness and irresolution under the present system; but the remedy is essentially one less of mechanics than of personalities. We are assured, at least, that Mr. Lloyd George and Sir Edward Carson will guarantee the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial industry, and certainly of the makings possibly of a profitable commercial wants of the community—in the possibil ties of home cheese-making. For once the war news pladdle to the domestic crisis, inited on Friday night, he broken out. This morning Neuspaper announced that George has arrived at the declusion that the methods of indecision, and delay which a the action of the present War such, in his opinion, as to en prospects of winning the war awner of Reynolds's is Sir Her M.P., who is known to be o terms with the Secretary of Statther need be no hesitation in the information as accurate. there need be no hesitation in the information as accurate.

It is understood that the corwhich Mr. Lloyd George chief is that the War Council should he is size, and that some of its presbers should retire and be replace blood. He is believed to be anxious that Sir Edward Carson a member of the Council. This possible. I know as a fact the his brief membership of the Government Sir Edward came to clusion that Mr. Lloyd George only Minister with much drivin and it is quite likely that M George formed an equally high of Sir Edward.

Among the Ministers whose diance is confidently expected is four, who is believed, rightly or to have exercised a restraining than a stimulating, influence uservities of the Nacy. It is also that Mr. Asquith himself may be while remaining Prime Minister, the himself to administrative, rational executive, control. It may be said that, if the latter is really one Lloyd George's conditions, it will an accommodation of the presen impossible. No self-respecting manaccept the position of being nominic head of the Government in a greated that is the Government in a greated to take his regarding the conduct of the wall another body.

For that reason, unless Mr. George has definitely come to to clusion that Mr. Asquith must ceal Prime Minister, if we are to win to I doubt whether he has made the foulthed above. He may quite we sider that Mr. Asquith's wonderf as an interpreter and conciliator opinion are too valuable to lose, and if he had fewer colleagues on the Council, he would be able to make mind more quickly and abandon to fopostponing urgent questions where the house of Commons this see, how the dilatoriness has got in Government's bones. Of course, it is much easier for a practical autocrat like the German Emperor to take these prompt decisions than for the rulers of a democratic country steeped in the traditions of Parliamentary government. But what we ought to aim ataming at—is to reduce the inevitable delays to the absolute minimum, and to put the War Council as nearly as possible into the position of the individual War Lord. ROPERTY LOSSES.

153 FLEET STREET, LONDON, SUNDAY NIGHT.

For once the war news plays second fiddle to the domestic crisis, which as I hinted on Friday night, has auddenly broken out. This morning Reynolds's Kusspaper announced that "Mr. Lloyd George has arrived at the definite conclusion, and delay which characterise the action of the present War Council are such, in his opinion, as to endanger the prospects of winning the war." As the owner of Reynolds's is Sir Henry Dalziel, M.P., who is known to be on intimate torms with the Secretary of State for War, there need be no hesitation in accepting the information as accurate.

Later in the day it was stated that Mr. Lloyd George had handed in his resignation to the Prime Minister, who had not yet accepted it, but was engaged in considering what steps could be taken to meet the objections which had caused his colleague to take this decisive step. Mr. Asquith had an audience of the King yesterday, doubtless to inform His Majesty of this new and startling development. The King also saw Sir William Robertson, Chief of the Imperial General Stafi. It was nearly midnight before it was announced that Mr. Asquith had avaised the King to consent to a Government reconstruction.

It is understood, that the condition on which Mr. Lloyd George chiefly insists is that the War Council should be reduced in size, and that some of its present mem.

The curious thing is that, an tactfully did he exercise his power, the Unionist recruits, so far from complaining, rather hugged their chains. One of them about this time, discounting the Frime Minister with a friend of the War Council, it is difficult to see how the titular leader of the Unionist Party could with dignity remain. He and Sir Edward are personally on good terms, despite the little breeze in the House over the Nigerian properties. CAN THE GOVERNMENT BE SAVED?

The Sunday Escasion Telegrous inquires:—Can Mr. Asquith's Government be saved? That is the question which will rise to most minds on reading the naws. It had been stated that the craise would probably be estiled by the formation of a new War Council, which would include the Frime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bafour, Mr. Bonar Law, and Sir Edward Carson. But there is reason to believe that this solution would not meet the views of Mr. Lloyd George, as it would not avoid the delays which have been the cause of so much disaster. If Mr. Lloyd George goes, it is practically certain that the Aquith Government will break up, although it may carry on for a time.

There is good news from the Rumanian front to-day. Russian troops have reinforced the hard-pressed Rumanians west and south of Bukharest. In the fighting during the week-end Bulgarians and Germans were forced to retire, and a number of prisoners and a quantity of war material, including 25 guns, have been captured.

A big enemy attack on the road from Pitesci to Bukharest and a Russo-Rumanian success in the Dobrudja, where our Allies have gained possession of the western part of the Cernavoda bridgehead and forced the enemy to retreat towards the south, were notable events of the weekend.

The charge is also brought against him, by a number of Royalist soldiers, that he and his associates had offered them 25 drachmae apiece, and their expenses, to go to Salonika. PRESIDENT WILSON AND PEACE.

At a banquet held to-day to celebrate the invision of a system of perfanent illumination of Barthold's famous statue of Liberty, in New York Harbour, President Wilsou delivered a speech, in which he expressed the opinion that peace would only come to the world through liberty. With all due respect to those who represent the peace would only come to the world through liberty. With all due respect to those who represent of the forms of government, he said, perhys I may be permitted to say that peace would not come so long as the destinies of men are determined by small groups who make selfish choices of their own. Urging the adoption of a higher type of citisenship, the President said—The spirit of the world rises with the sacrifeces of men, and as men forget to be solfish they unite to be great on an occasion. M. Junscand, French Ambassador, read a telegram from President Poincaré, which said: It is it to sacred cause of liberty that the Prench people are battling and suffering to day. They feel sure that they can always count on their friends in America, from whom they have already received so many tokens of sympathy, and who have shown the world that they are still enamoured of the same ideal."

Captain H. J. Considins.—Captain Heffernan James Considine, the Royal Irish Regiment, whose name appears in the last Honours List as having been awarded the Military Crossfor reasons officially described as follows: "For conspicuous gallantry in action. He handled his company with great courage and skill, maintaining his position under intense fire for forty-eight hours"—was killed in action on the morning of the 27th October, 1916. He had just rejoined his battalion from hospital, where he had been suffering from a severe attack of trench fever, and also from injury to his ears, caused by being completely buried by a shell during the time that he was holding the position for which he was awarded the Military Cross. Captain Considine was the eldest son of the late Sir Heffernan Considine, C.B., M.V.O., D.L., of Derk, Co. Limerick. He was educated at Beaumont College, Old Windsor, where he was head of the school, captain of the cricket and football eleven, and he rowed in the College boat. He was a keen sportsman, and good at all games. One of his brothers was killed in action last year, two ethers have been wounded, and the youngest is an ambulance driver in France.

Second Lieutenant J. P. Hyland.—Second Lieutenant J. P. Hyland, Connaught Rangers (attached Inniskilling Fusiliers), was wounded on the 23rd uit. He was shot by a sniper cattached Inniskilling Fusiliers), was wounded on the 23rd uit. He was shot by a sniper in the head, and is now in hospital in Manchester. CAPTAIN C. ROCHE, R.A.M.C.

The Bradford Daily Telegraph says:—" & Bradfordian who is with the West Yorkshires in France writes a glowing tribute to Doctor and Captain Ch. Boche, R.A.M.C. San Frishman), who, he states, has been awarded the Military Cross for gallantry and distinguished service night and day in the trenches succouring the wounded, and alleviating the pain of the dying, although under shell fire on very many occasions. The efforts and devotion of the doctor, writes the correspondent, have been really marchunan."

At the Clerkenwell Police Court on Saturday, before Mr. Summonds, John Andrew Haslop, 37, 38, and 39 Upper street, Islington, draper, appeared to answer four summonses alleging breaches of the Merchandise Marks Act in selising and having in his possession for the purposes of trade on August 26 and September 2 cotton handkerchiefs to which the false trade description "linen" had been applied.

Mr. Frank Safford (instructed by the Solicitor to the Board of Trade) appeared for the prosecution, who alleged that on the two dates mentioned an official bought two handkerchiefs purporting to be linen at the defendant's abop. The handkerchiefs turned out to be only cotton. In reply to a letter from the Board of Trade aaking him where he obtained the goods, the defendant wrote that he was willing to give any information within his power. He enclosed an invoice for the linen handkerchief, and said that he also had a larger cotton handkerchief at the vime price. If the agent had asked only for a landkerchief at 33d., he might have received either a linen article or a cotton one. In a second letter, the defendant wrote absolutely denying that the handkerchiefs were a better selling line. There was entire absence of motive to deceive. Both assistants who served the handkerchiefs in question received no commission, and, besides, the cotton handkerchiefs cost more than the linen. He felt sure that those responsible for the actions of the Board of Trade had no desire to trouble tradeamen of good repute—his business had been established forty-eight rears, without any such imputation having previously been made—with vexations and unfair proaccutions. The probable explanation was that the agent who purchased the handkerchiefs do not state his requirements as clearly as he might have done. In reply to that suggestion, Mr. Safford observed that the handkerchiefs do not state his requirements as clearly as he might have done.
